Food Preservation Questions

This is the third and last in a series of question and answer articles about food preservation problems. We have been featuring some of the most frequently asked or some of the biggest problems we seem to have.

QUES. Why do jars not seal? I have purchased new lids and followed proper procedure. Now, what happened?

ANS. The main reasons for jars not sealing are: 1) Using makeshift supplies. Makeshift supplies include what we call "packers" jars or "one trip" jars that you have purchased items in out of the supermarket. There is a good possibility that the mouths are not accurate width and the lids ride on the edge. The ceiling edges may not be level and may have dips. Remember, most of these jars have come with a one-piece cap on them rather than a screw band and a lid like you are using. 2) Using screw bands that are rusty or bent; 3) Not screwing the band down with full strength of the hand before processing; 4) Using jars with damaged ceiling edges; 5) Not cleaning the ceiling edge of the jar; 6) Siphoning of liquid causing food particles to lodge between the lid and the ceiling edge of the jar. This can happen especially when canning corn, beans and other vegetables with small pieces. 7) Lack of heat in pro-cessing.

QUES. What causes pickling problems?

ANS. Your success at making homemade pickles using mother's and grandmother's good old fashioned recipes is greatly affected by the following conditions: 1) Weather and growing conditions; 2) The kind of salt used for brining (Use pure canning or pickling salt. Never use iodized salt); 3) Vinegar of 5 percent acidity (All the vinegar on the market locally is 5 percent acidity); 4) Temperature of storage conditions (Never store pickles in brine in warm place. It should be the coolest place you can find in your house during the hot summer.); 5) Methods of pickling process; 6) The time lapse between gathering and pickling. (A good rule of thumb is bring cucumbers straight from the garden and begin the processing immediately. This means if you are putting pickles in brine, wash, clean, and get in brine within a few hours and, likewise, using any other method of pickling.)

QUES. What causes a white sediment in the bottom of the jars of food that I can?

ANS. The use of table salt can cause this problem. It is desireable to use canning salt. Remember, table salt has an anti-caking, free flowing ingredient in it.

QUES. Do foods lose nutrients when blanching and processing?

ANS. Nutrient losses in processing may be instead of, rather than in addition to, those that occur in cooking. Losses in blanching and storing may be offset by the shorter times required for frozen than fresh vegetables. Processing extends the period of availability of foods. Without processing, a number of foods would be unavailable at some times during the year. An interesting example is, some nutrients are lost from fresh foods. For example, spinach loses 50 percent of its original Vitamin C content in about two days at 68 degrees F. Think of how much less you would lose if you froze that spinach immediately.

If you have a food preservation or homemaking problem or question, you may call 352-8244 or write P. O. Box 488, Appomattox, VA 24522. This is the conclusion of a three-part series on food preservation questions and answers.

Have a good week!

RECIPE OF THE WEEK
Asparagus Casserole

1 can asparagus (drained)
1 small can green peas, drained
1 can mushroom soup
1/2 can milk (combined with soup)
6 slices cheese
4 slices bread toasted
1 stick margarine, melted

Make layers of asparagus, peas, soup and cheese. Top with bread crumbs in butter. Cook covered 20 to 40 minutes at 350 degrees. Remove top last 10 minutes.

Good News For Homemakers

Evans reunion slated

The Evans family reunion will take place Sunday, July 29, at the Sherwill Community Center, Highway 646, in Concord.

A covered dish luncheon will begin at 1 p.m. There will be a sing-along, horse shoe games and water balloons for the children.

Family members are asked to bring pictures of relatives and former reunions.

For further information, call Carol Driskill at 332-6228.

Family gathering set

The family of Stephen Thomas and Elvira Gordon Marsh will hold their annual family reunion on Sunday, Aug. 5, 1984 at the Woodman of the World Building, Appomattox.

Dinner will begin at 1 p.m. Come and join your relatives in dinner and fellowship.

Johnsons host cook-out

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Johnson Jr. were hosts for a cook-out at their home on July 14. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Palma Ball; Sonja and Freddie, Mrs. Marie Ball; all of Marion, Heather Johnson, Mrs. Pauline Gunter and Hope; of Appomattox. Other recent guests of the Johnson's were Mrs. Joyce Roach and Mrs. Martha V. Cox; of Richmond.

Happiness is 4-H

By FRANK SWEET
Extension Agent

Appomattox 4-H members should begin making plans for exhibits in the Five County Fair. The Fair will be the second week in September and will begin Sunday, September 12, and end on Saturday, September 18. New Five County Fair Catalogs should be available by mid-August. We will ask the Fair Association to send a catalog to each 4-H family. The Five County Fair provides an opportunity to exhibit and display many items ranging from livestock to clothing to foods to woodworking, vegetables and photography. We encourage all young people to participate in the Fair and exhibit as many items as possible.

We have several items of clothing and towels in the Extension Office that were left at Holiday Lake 4-H Camp. If you are missing items that may have been left at camp, please stop by and look through our collection.

Eighteen teenagers and 6 adults will leave Appomattox Friday morning of this week for the Interstate Exchange trip to Bailey County, Texas. 4-H'ers involved in the exchange trip include: Robert Coleman, Chip Hernell, Rick Pack, Lisa Coleman, Bob Poole, James Cash, Ernest Humbles, Jr., Robert Taylor, Craig Ranson, Rhonda Ranson, Brett Marston, Beth Marston, Howard Anderson, Curtis Moore, Karen Trent, Tiffany Royal, Teresa Burger, and Latrese Lee. Adults involved in the trip include Mr. and Mrs. Marvin A. Glover, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Warren A. Coleman, Ms. Janet Hix and Frank Sweet.

The 4-H group will be staying with families in Texas while visiting in Bailey County. The group will arrive back in Appomattox on Sunday night, August 5.

Karen Gilliam, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Gilliam of Concord, participated in the East Central District 4-H Horse Show on Saturday, July 14, in Bedford. Karen is now eligible to participate in the State 4-H Horse Show in Richmond during the State Fair week.

Virginia 4-H is in the process of establishing several 4-H Curriculum Development Committees to help with project development. Committees will made up of volunteers, senior 4-H'ers and Extension employees. These committees will hopefully strengthen 4-H teaching materials and methods. Areas in which committees will be established include: bicycle, clothing and textiles, computer science, creative and performing arts, crops and soils, foods and nutrition, forestry, health, consumer education, horticulture, poultry, safety, small engines and tractor, and wildlife-fisheries.

Adults or teen 4-H'ers who may be interested in serving on one of these committees may contact us at the Extension Office. Applications for committee members must be in by August 14.

Ferguson reunion slated

The annual reunion of Charlie and Addie Lee Ferguson will be held Sunday, Aug. 5 at the Monroe Masonic Lodge.

Lunch will be served at 1 p.m. Relatives and friends are invited to attended and bring a picnic lunch.
